

SUPPLY CHAIN MANAGEMENT

LA ROCHE UNIVERSITY

THE MAJOR IN SUPPLY CHAIN MANAGEMENT

is designed to provide students with the skills and technical expertise needed to excel in the Supply Chain Management profession.

The program prepares students for careers in supply chain such as logistician, procurement manager, logistics analyst, supply chain analyst, quality manager or operations research analyst. This program also prepares students for candidacy for the Certified in Planning and Inventory Management (CPIM) designation. Additionally, the program provides preparation for graduate study in supply chain management and other business-related disciplines.

Based on accreditation guidelines, the Supply Chain Management major at La Roche University has not yet been submitted for accreditation to the Accreditation Council for Business Schools and Programs (ACBSP), a leading, specialized accreditation association for business education.
