Certified Registered Nurse Anesthetist
Main Street Anesthesia

Jeremy "Shane" Bison '12 is a certified registered nurse anesthetist with Main Street Anesthesia located in Fort Worth, Texas.

With anesthesia care continuously evolving, Mr. Bison said he is passionate about the job and how it helps patients.

"I feel blessed to practice the art of anesthesia, but also to be the person at the bedside of every patient at such a vulnerable time in their lives. My patients are my family, and I care and love each in that manner," he said.

Mr. Bison's work in anesthesia allows him to share his time and voice for various causes. Many of his family members and friends have personal ties to charities which, along with his anesthetic work, inspires him to give back.

Mr. Bison completed the World Marathon Majors and received a six star medal. The event, which spans across six cities around the globe, allows the runner to support a different charity at each marathon. Mr. Bison has ran in Berlin, London, New York, Boston, Chicago and Tokyo.

Over the course of these marathons, he and his fiancé Cindy ran in support of four charity organizations: Sense, Team Kids, the Ronald McDonald House and the Dana-Farber Cancer Institute.

"Growing up in rural Louisiana to a family with very little financially and materially made an imprint on my soul. I understand what it's like to want, need, feel less than others and hurt. I am beyond grateful to provide anesthesia to others. My career has allowed Cindy and me to do what we can to alleviate others from feeling the same. We help because we can," Mr. Bison said.
